JUVENILE COURT OVERVIEW

The following report is the fifty-first in a series of juvenile court statistics and the eighteenth published under the direction of the Division of Youth Services (DYS) and the Department of Social Services Research and Evaluation Unit as mandated by Missouri Statute RSMo. section 219.016.(3). This report presents the summary statistics of Missouri's juvenile court system for calendar year 1995.

The numbers represented in this report are not individual children, but separately disposed court referrals. A referral is defined as "any action involving a juvenile which results in a determination, finding, or outcome and a written record maintained in the juvenile's name." A disposed referral is one which has resulted in a "finding" or "outcome". Examples of findings and outcomes include:

Court Adjudication

Informal Adjustment

Transfer to other Court

Rejection of Referral

Throughout this report, the term "referral" means "disposed referral".

Table 1.

Annual Referrals

YEAR	REFERRALS
1991	76,287
1992	73,449
1993	72,748
1994	77,460
1995	80,175

In calendar year 1995, 80,175 referrals were disposed by the 45 juvenile court circuits in Missouri. This number marks a five percent increase over five years since 1991, and a 3.5 percent increase over 1994.

Because of problems with individual identification systems for juveniles, the number of children represented by these referrals cannot be accurately reported. Missouri does not use a unique, individual identifier and, therefore, an exact statewide count of individual children is not available.

Graph 1. Total Referrals by Race and Gender

Race and Gender Comparisons

Graph 1 shows the gender and race breakdown of all referrals in 1995. Males made up the larger portion of each racial grouping, accounting for 68 percent of all referrals, while females made up 32 percent. White youth comprised 66 percent of the referral population, while black youth comprised 31 percent. Just under three percent of the referral population were other races.

Referral Types

Referrals to Missouri's juvenile courts break down into four categories:

- Law Violations: Acts which would be a violation of the Missouri Criminal Code if they were committed by an adult.
- Status Violations: Acts which are violations only if committed by a juvenile. These include such activities as truancy and running away from home.
- Abuse, Neglect, Custody: (A/N/C) Reports of Missouri children who were victims of abuse or neglect, and children involved in custody disputes, transfers, or terminations of parental rights.
- Administrative: Reported referrals of violations of court orders. This category was changed in 1992, before which it tracked permanency planning reviews and other miscellaneous referrals such as probation violations.

Table 2. Juvenile Court Referral Statistics: 1986-1995

1995	11,743	973 *	44,048	23,411 	80,175

* The definitions for reporting in the Administrative category were changed in 1992.

 The definitions for reporting in the Status Offense category changed in 1994 to include curfew violations.

Table 2 shows the breakdown of all referrals into the four referral categories over the past ten years. Administrative referrals increased over 1994, while abuse, neglect and custody referrals dropped by 15 percent. Law violation referrals, 44,048, comprised 53 percent of all referrals statewide in 1995, increasing seven percent from 1994. Status offenses increased to 23,411, a nine percent increase over 1994. Some of the shift in law and status offense trends can be attributed to the change in reporting methodology; curfew violations are now included in the definition of status offenses and not in law violations.

Referral Trends

Graph 2 illustrates the change in total referrals, by category, over the past ten years. While an increase has been the general trend for each, status violations show the most dramatic increase, partly due to reporting changes. From 1986 to 1995, law violation referrals increased 34 percent, while abuse, neglect and custody referrals increased seven percent.

Referral Sources

Referrals to the Missouri juvenile court system can come from many sources. In 1995, 69 percent of all referrals were initiated by law enforcement. As in the past, more than half of the abuse, neglect and custody referrals were initiated by the Department of Social Services' Division of Family Services (DFS). Status offense referrals were more likely to be made by schools or municipal police. The juvenile courts and parents were also the initiators of large numbers of referrals. Table 3 shows the source of all referrals to the Missouri juvenile courts.

Most Common Major Allegations

Graph 3. Most Common Major Allegation: Male

Graphs 3 and 4 illustrate the most common major allegations, by gender, for 1995 referrals. Although status violation is the top category with the largest individual number of referrals, males are more likely to be referred for a law violation of any kind than any other referral. Stealing, property damage, and assault are in the top five reasons for referral.

Females are most likely to be referred to the juvenile courts for a status violation. Abuse, neglect and custody referrals is the next major category. The number of female referrals for law violations of any kind is much lower both as a percentage of total female referrals and as compared to male referrals.

Graph 4. Most Common Major Allegation: Female

* "All Others" includes other law violations not mentioned on this graph.

Disposition of Referrals

After a youth has been referred to a juvenile court, a formal judgement or informal decision is made about how to handle that case. The possible determinations or outcomes fall into two categories:

1.) those that are handled formally with a petition to the court, and 2.) those that are informally adjusted outside of the court.

The formal dispositions that can occur are:

True, Out-of-Home:	The allegation is found to be true and the youth is placed out of his or her home. The placement may be with the Division of Youth Services, a foster home, a relative, or some other agency.
True, In-Home:	The allegation is found to be true and the youth receives services in his or her own home.
True, No Services:	The allegation is found to be true, but the youth receives no services.
Not True:	The allegation is found to be not true.
Motion to Dismiss:	The court sustains a motion to dismiss and the case is closed.
Dismiss for Certification:	The court sustains a motion to dismiss and the case is transferred to an adult criminal court to be processed under the criminal code.

The informal dispositions that can occur are:

Adjust without Supervision:	No more than one face-to-face contact is made between court personnel and the juvenile. This usually results in the giving of advice, counsel or a verbal warning.
Adjust with Supervision:	Either a verbal or written agreement is made to put the juvenile under court supervision. This usually includes some sort of restitution or community service.
Adjust - No Action:	No action is taken by the juvenile officer other than the collection of information.
Transfer to Other Juvenile Court:	Jurisdiction over the juvenile is transferred to another juvenile court for disposition.
Transfer to Other Agency:	The youth's case (records, files, etc.) is turned over to another agency for disposition.
Referral Rejected:	No reason is found to sustain the referral.

The dispositions of 1995 referrals to Missouri juvenile courts are shown in Graph 5. Over three-quarters (78 percent) of all referrals were disposed of informally.

Graphs 6 and 7 show the outcomes of formally and informally disposed referrals. "W/O Supervision" was the finding for the largest number of referrals.

Formal dispositions accounted for only 22 percent of all referral outcomes, but some important results can be noted from them. While the percentage of all formal referrals remained about the same from 1994 to 1995, the category of "Certification" rose by 11 percent. Also, referrals found true and placed out-of-home declined by seven percent.

Graph 5. Disposition of Referrals

Graph 6. Outcomes of Formally Disposed Referrals

Graph 7. Outcomes of Informally Disposed Referrals

A total of 6,246 referrals were placed out-of-home in 1995. Abuse, neglect and custody referrals made up 50 percent of all out-of-home placements. Law violation referrals accounted for 30 percent and status violation referrals made up 15 percent.

Fourty-four percent of all out-of-home placements were made to DFS. Another 23 percent of these placements were made to DYS. Frequently, youths were placed with relatives, court residential care, or some other private agency. Graph 8 shows the distribution of placements out-of-home.

In-home services were provided for 16,932 referrals in 1995. However, because more than one provider can be listed for each referral, there were 19,180 provider-referrals. In-home services can be ordered by the court or provided informally by court personnel. Eighty-seven percent of in-home service cases were supervised by juvenile court personnel. (Graph 9.)

Certifications to Adult Court

In 1995, there were 359 referrals dismissed from the juvenile courts to allow certification to adult court. Table 4 shows the number of dismissed referrals by age and race.

Table 4. Juveniles Certified to Adult Court - Age by Race

Pre-Hearing Placements

At the time of a referral, a juvenile may be detained awaiting a determination. Two types of facilities are used for detention: secure and non-secure. During 1995, 12,036 referrals were detained prior to hearing. Males made up almost 70 percent of all placements, and males were more likely to be detained in a secure facility. A breakdown of all detainees by category and gender is provided in Table 5.

Table 5. Pre-Hearing Placements by Referral Type and Gender

	SECURE		NON-SECURE		BOTH
	MALE	FEMALE	MALE	FEMALE	MALE	FEMALE

ADMINISTRATIVE	275	67	69	22	1	0
TOTAL	5,716	1,172	2,502	2,470	119	57

There are several types of facilities in which non-secure placements may be held: Foster Home, Group Home, Group Foster Home, Institutions or Facility, Relative, and Other. In 1995, the largest portion of these were held in a foster home (55 percent). Detention with a relative was added as a new category on the 1992 juvenile information form. This category accounted for ten percent of non-secure placements in 1995. Graph 10 details the percentage of placements into the different categories.

Graph 11 shows the operators of the non-secure facilities. The operators of a facility can be: DFS, the Department of Mental Health (DMH), Juvenile Court, Local Government, Private Agency, Relative, or Other. DFS was the operator of the facilities in 57 percent of the disposed referrals that had a non-secure placement.

LAW VIOLATION REFERRALS

Law violation referrals made up 53 percent of all referrals to the juvenile court system in 1995. Law violations represent a single delinquent act even though several offenses may have been committed at the same time by the child referred. The most serious violation that resulted in a final disposition is recorded as the major allegation for the referral.

Law Violation Outcomes

Graph 12 depicts the outcomes of all law referrals. Informal adjustment without supervision accounted for 27 percent of all outcomes. Informal adjustments accounted for 79 percent of law violation referrals.

Prior Violations

The average number of prior law violations per referral varies greatly among various violations. Referrals for Homicide, Obstruct Judicial Process, Flight/Escape and Gambling are shown to have some of the highest incidences of prior allegations. (Table 6.)

Age Distribution of Law Violators

Over half (22,463) of all the law violation referrals in 1995 were 15 and 16 year old youths. This cohort was most likely to be referred for either stealing, property damage, or assault. This same pattern can be seen among each of the age groups. (Table 7.)

STATUS OFFENSE REFERRALS

Status Offense Outcomes

More status offense referrals were handled informally than formally. Informal adjustment without supervision was the most frequent outcome, accounting for 34 percent of status offense referrals. The numbers of referrals that received "No Action" increased from 1994, while the number that were adjusted informally and transferred to another juvenile court decreased. Aside from these, the proportion of each of the outcomes remained about the same as in 1994. (Graph 13.)

Graph 13. Outcomes of Status Offense Referrals

Status offenses are those offenses that are not considered violations if committed by adults. In 1995, status offenses accounted for 29 percent of all referrals. The category with the largest number of referrals was "Absent from Home" with 6,217. This was also the only category where the number of female referrals outnumbered male referrals. (Graph 14.)

Graph 14. Status Offense Referrals by Gender

Status Offense Placements

Pre-hearing placements for status referrals are somewhat rare. Only seven percent of 1995 status referrals were detained prior to hearing. Of those juveniles held, 1,037 were held in a secure facility (59 percent); 687 were held in a non-secure facility (39 percent); 25 juveniles were held in both secure and non-secure facilities pending their hearing (one percent). Runaways were more likely than other status offenders to be held in a secure setting. (Table 8.)

In 1995, 938 juveniles who were referred for status offenses were placed out-of-home. Thirty percent of those were put under DFS care; DYS accepted another 24 percent; 22 percent were placed into juvenile court residential care, while 13 percent were placed with a private agency. The rest were placed elsewhere, including with a relative, DMH, a public agency or court probation. (Table 9.)

ABUSE, NEGLECT AND CUSTODY REFERRALS

The abuse, neglect and custody category encompasses a wide range of referral types. Children can be referred because of physical abuse, abandonment or because they are involved in a custody dispute. A breakdown of all the abuse, neglect and custody referrals is listed in Table 10.

Appendix H: Number of Juveniles Certified to Adult Court
by Circuit, Race and Gender *

Because not all circuits and counties use unique individual identification numbers, and because two separate circuits might prosecute the same child using different IDs, a true statewide count of the number of children certified cannot accurately be found. The numbers on this table have been unduplicated to represent individual children within circuit.
